Strategic Management & Partnerships.

REPORTED BY:

MS. CATHERINE ARMBRUST RAJCAN,
CSR, RMR, RDR, CRR, CRC.
JENNIFER HOYLE: I think I'm going to get started with the hearing since it's two o'clock. And I think we have a good enough crowd to get started with.

Good afternoon; my name is Jennifer Hoyle. I'm the Director of Strategic Management and Partnerships for the Chicago Housing Authority. Today's the 2nd of three public comment hearings on the proposed FY2019 MTW Annual Plan. The purpose of this hearing is to collect comments on the plan before presenting it to the Board of Commissioners for approval and then submission to HUD.

In addition to voicing your comment here today, residents and community members have the opportunity to submit written comments to CHA throughout the comment period, which began on July 26th and ends on August 24th, 2018.

The plan is available on the CHA's website at www.theCHA.org. We also have copies of the plan available today, and we have a summary of the plan available as well.

I would like to note that each section of the summary indicates which pages of the plan it's referencing, so if you want additional information about anything that's described in the summary, you can go to the appropriate section of the plan.

If you haven't done so, already please make sure to sign in at the registration table before you leave today.

I'm going to begin by making a few introductions, and then I'm going to provide a summary of the plan before we proceed to public comment.

So our sign language interpreter isn't here yet. She should be arriving shortly. Her name is Carman Sanders. We do have as Spanish interpreter, Betty Nieves, who's seated over there, available as needed. And Cathy Rajcan is the court reporter, seated next to me, and she'll transcribe the comments made during the hearing.

So if you want to speak or submit a written comment, you'll have to complete one of the green comment cards that are available at the registration table.

So if you need one and you don't have one, just raise your hand, and we'll bring you one. If you want to submit a written comment only but not speak today, just check the box at the top of the card.

So what I'll do is I'll collect the cards at the end of my presentation, and then call people up to make comments.

Carman just arrived. She's our sign language interpreter.

So I'm going to provide a brief summary of the plan. So this is a very brief summary. It's basically a summary of the summary. So I'm just giving you a high-level overview. But additional information is available in the written summary and the plan itself.

CHA is required to submit an annual plan to HUD as part of our MTW agreement with HUD, and the content and format of the annual plan are based on specific HUD requirements. The following are some of the highlights from the 2019 plan. And as I said, additional details about all of these items are available in the summary and the plan itself.

As of the end of 2017, the remaining units to meet the 25,000 unit goal were in progress or under construction. Those units will be delivered throughout 2018, and we will meet and then exceed the goal in 2019 with the projected delivery of an additional 812 units, including 62 public housing units.

CHA expects to spend 230.5 million in capital expenditures, and will begin or continue 7 major capital projects. CHA is proposing 97 property dispositions, and all of the locations are listed in the plan. CHA's not proposing any property demolitions as part of the 2019 plan.

CHA plans to proceed with redevelopment activity at a variety of sites including but not limited to Herald
Ickes Homes, Henry Horner Superblock, LeClaire Courts, Oakwood Shores, Park Boulevard, and Parkside of Old Town.

CHA is also proposing three new MTW activities and significant changes to four previously approved activities. The new activities include, one, a single HAP for noncontiguous PBV properties with the same owner; two, a lease-to-own program; and three, a renewable energy initiative. So these three activities are entirely new, that we will be doing them for the first time.

The modified activities include changes to the Family Self-Sufficiency program, that would allow for biennial progress reporting, would allow household members other than the head of household to enroll in the program, and to discontinue interest earned from participant escrow to create a grand fund.

We are also proposing to modify the exception payment standard activity to add the location of the unit to criteria that can be considered to go up to 250 percent for a reasonable accommodation. We are proposing a modification to an existing HCV activity that allows CHA to disregard assets and income calculation after initial eligibility for the program. The new proposal is that we will now disregard all assets under 50,000, including at initial intake.
And we are -- finally, we are proposing a change to the income calculation hardship exemption, which was an activity that was just approved for 2018. This was targeted at heads of household making required child support payments that hindered their ability to pay their monthly rent portion. We are now seeking to expand this exemption to all working adult household members.

Okay. So that concludes my summary. We're now going to proceed to the public comment portion of the meeting.

If you filled out a green comment card and would like to make a comment, please raise your hand.

BRIDGET HOWARD: Does anyone need a comment card?

JENNIFER HOYLE: Okay, I think what I'm going to do -- it's only 5 minutes after 2:00; and I know some of you just picked up the summary. So what I'm going to propose is that we adjourn until 2:15; you can look over the summary, decide if you have any comments or questions. We'll reopen at 2:15. And then if you have comments at that time, we'll take them.

We'll try to address them if we can do that at this time. If not, we do address all comments in a comment grid at the end of the process. And if we don't have any comments at that point, we'll adjourn.

So right now I'm proposing that we adjourn 'til 2:15, so you can consider the documents and decide if you have any questions or comments. And then we'll reopen the meeting at 2:15. Okay?

Thank you.

(A recess was had.)

JENNIFER HOYLE: I have to formally reopen the meeting.

So it is 2:16, and I'm going to reopen the public comment hearing on the FY2019 MTW plan. I have two comments that were submitted. One has indicated that she just wants to submit a written comment. But Kimberly Bagget would like to say something on the record. So Kimberly.

KIMBERLY BAGGET: I just want to know about -- you know, my mom, she lives in public housing. But how do you get the lease-to-own, and then say like if you're a nonresident, will you be able to apply to lease-to-own in the public housing.

JENNIFER HOYLE: Okay. Mary, is that something you feel like -- Mary Howard from our Resident Services office is going to address that question.

MARY HOWARD: Sure. So CHA currently owns about 19 townhomes located around Jackson and Western. And those would be the only units that would qualify under the lease-to-own program, should we get approval. And so there will be specific criteria around income and -- and credit that will be required for people to apply to take part in that program.

As we've indicated in the plan, the priority would be for anyone living in public housing or our HCV population, or anyone on our wait lists. And if no one is from any of those, then we will open it up to eligible persons from the community; so they don't have to currently live in CHA housing.

It would be a five-year program that would lease with the rent payments, a portion of those getting escrowed to serve as the downpayment for the townhome.

KIMBERLY BAGGET: Okay. So right now is it like -- can people go apply at the Jackson and Western to be on the wait list?

MARY HOWARD: No. Only because we don't have -- this -- this proposal is to ask HUD for permission to do it. And then if we get permission to do it, then we would be rolling it out and informing people how to apply.

KIMBERLY BAGGET: Okay. I got one more question.

Because I was reading -- I was just skimming through it, actually. Is it possible that you guys can explain more into the EPS, the exception payment standards.
JENNIFER HOYLE: Katie Ludwig from our HCV program can address that.

KATIE LUDWIG: In the Housing Choice Voucher program, the limit that we place on how much rent we can pay in a given month is called a payment standard. We have in the HCV program, through our MTW authority, in the past HUD has approved us for in certain areas; and in certain cases, we can do an exception payment standard, which means we can pay a slightly higher rent. So the -- we have two different kinds of exception payment standards, one is for mobility areas, so areas with lower poverty and lower crime rates. We can go up to 150 percent of the HUD fair market rent as a payment standard. So we can pay more than what we would normally pay.

And then we can go up to 250 percent of the HUD fair market rent in cases of a reasonable accommodation. So if for instance -- if the unit -- if maybe a person's in a wheelchair, something like that, and they need a unit that has wider doorways and, you know -- that is accessible for them, we could pay a slightly higher rent, up to 250 percent of the fair market rent for that.

What we're requesting in this from HUD is to make that reasonable accommodation exception payment standard, the circumstances under which we can offer that, a little bit broader. And not just for the accessibility features of the unit, but also for the location of the unit.

So for instance, we get requests a lot of the time that folks would like to live in a certain unit because it's close to their doctor's office, or it's close to where they go for therapy, or their kids are enrolled in a certain school because their kids have a -- oh, my gosh, why can't I think of the acronym for -- IEP.
Thank you. Their kids have an IEP, and this -- this school that their kids go to support all their social, emotional learning needs and whatnot. And they need to be attending that school; and they would like to live close to that school.

We can approve -- you know, if we have documentation from the doctor or medical professional that supports that, we can approve a reasonable accommodation. And if this gets approved, we'd be able to use that higher rent level, if it's needed.

It's not -- I should say in all of these cases this is only if it's needed. It doesn't mean that automatically the landlord gets that higher rent. But it means that if the market in that area supports that higher rent, then we would offer that.

I should have said that off the bat. None of this is automatic. It's not that landlords go, oh, now I can get this higher rent. It is -- if that's what the going rate is in that area, then we could pay up to that higher amount.

Does that help?

KIMBERLY BAGGET: I get it. Thank you.

UNIDENTIFIED INDIVIDUAL: Okay. Thank you.

JENNIFER HOYLE: Okay. I don't have any additional cards for anyone who wants to speak on the record.

So the one thing I wanted to mention -- because there are a couple questions at least -- the lease to own is the timing of getting a plan approved. As Mary said, we're asking for permission, the board has to approve the plan, and we submit it to HUD in mid October. There's usually some back and forth with HUD, and they approve it usually in January or February of that year. So we're talking like January, February of 2019 if they approve all of these activities that we -- like the very earliest that there would be any action on the new things that we're proposing. Okay?

So if there are no other additional comments or comment cards -- sorry, there's one other person. Oh, you do have -- okay.

Okay. La Donna Brown, did you want to speak on the record, or did you want to submit a written comment?
LADONNA BROWN: Submit a written.

JENNIFER HOYLE: We'll get back to you on the comments after we've read it. There are no additional people who want to speak here today, so I want to close out this hearing.

I do want to mention that you have until August 24th to comment. You can submit written comments, email, fax, mail, drop off in person at CHA offices if there's something else that you think of. So thank you for attending this meeting today.

And we do have another comment hearing next week at the FIC on the 16th at six o'clock. So thank you.

And I'm going to adjourn this meeting. Thanks.
